

Medicare is an insurance program that pays medical bills for people who are at least 65 years old, or who are disabled. It is available to people who receive Social Security benefits regardless of how much money they have. It pays medical bills with money from the Social Security Trust Fund, which most people pay into while they work. Retired and disabled people pay a monthly insurance premium for Medicare Part B. This is usually taken out of their Social Security check before they get the check