

You can have private insurance and also be eligible for Medicaid. If you have private health insurance available to you or a member of your family, your eligibility for Medicaid will not be affected. Any service not covered or only partially covered by a private health insurance plan and listed as a Medicaid covered service will be paid by Medicaid. Medicaid will pay up to the maximum Medicaid is allowed to pay.

Whenever you have both private health insurance and Medicaid, you should show both your Medicaid card and your health insurance card to your medical provider each time you receive services.
